

Justice

Black Mothers name their children Justice because the affiliation to the system is the closest they'll ever come to being proud of Justice

Black children are named Justice to know that in some context they can find hope in themselves and not the system that liberates the suspects and buries the victims in cold blood tactics

Paperwork is filled marked case closed but the only sealed fate is in closed caskets

Black mothers name their children Justice so that it can never be taken away from their youngest Black children are named Justice so they know that injustice on their lives will never come between their everlasting sound sleep, never I

We cannot revenge black children for we will never avenge justice

Justice will lay resting for a black child

Justice lays restless waiting to be arrested but the trigger was trained to fire so Justice will sacrifice his blood to pavements

For his name to mean something more than the engravings stoned upon his headstone

We must awaken the Justices from within

Black Mothers name their children Justice so they can grow up and remember that the state once held a vow to protect him

Justice doesn't know he holds power

Justice is justice

Unbiased, blind, deaf and tasteless to the socially constructed structures of a mapped convex inhabited by mindless, soulless, unrightfully catechizing, proselytizing minions to their madness

We're ruled by selfish intentions of others and the mentally unstable white man

Justice doesn't deserve human it deserves lawful however

We cannot revenge black children for we will never avenge Justice

Black mothers name their children Justice so they can rise up to change history

Black children are named Justice so they can rise up to avenge the struggles of their own ancestors

Not to be eternally enslaved to a system who once persecuted in clusters the black women, men and children who yearned for the right to live out biological organs and not just the pigments of their skin

We cannot revenge black children for we will never avenge Justice
Our ancestors never knew justice it wasn't something to believe in Justice the black child can never know justice the law for justice has already failed the black child for justice is a slave of its own to mere human minds justice can't justify why that black child can no longer wear a cap and gown to graduation, how she can no longer be given away at the altar, kiss his mother goodbye on the way out to school Justice failed to be just Justice failed to serve and protect justice, the black child
But we cannot revenge black children for we will never avenge Justice Justice has no rights but to be lawfully just Justice does not have the right to remain silent Anything justice says cannot and will not be held against justice in the court of law because The court of law is a playwright for "educated" "degreed" actors So black mothers name their children Justice to give her offspring hope like they have the right to live abidingly free Black children are named Justice to act out as though moral righteousness has no pigment impairments and could be obtained dignified and deemed pronounceable for any breathing human But Justice, our black child is kept hostage for a ransom of more of the young black blood
So it is just of us to proclaim in our dark shadows in night terrors, in fear stricken crowds that black lives matter because Yes we are right black lives do matter
But that should already be a given birthright honour and if you don't recognize that then maybe the lives of your people's children already do matter
We cannot revenge black children for we will never avenge Justice
